HULL SENDS BITTER NOTE TO MEXICO

F. D. R., FARLEY IN AGREEMENT ON "SITUATION"

Long Conversation Between Chief Executive, Aide Ends Amicably

SEN. TYDINGS DISCUSSED

Capital Believes President To Invade Maryland For Address

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 26—(UP)—President Roosevelt reported today that he and Postmaster General James A. Farley were "in complete agreement" after long conversations in which the political situations in several states were explored.

Beyond that brief, authorized quotation, however, the chief executive would not go.

Observers, nevertheless, were of the opinion that "complete agreement" meant that the President would invade Maryland in his campaign against renomination of Sen. Millard Tydings inasmuch as Farley yesterday said that he would urge such a course.

Back to New York

Farley left the White House at 8 a. m., returning to New York after having spent the night as the guest of the President. It was his first visit with Mr. Roosevelt in more than a month and a half.

The president, in his shirt sleeves and without a tie, received newspapermen in his study shortly before noon and was bombarded with questions dealing with politics.

Reminded that the Worker's Alliance, according to reports, would defy Harry Hopkins, Works Progress administrator, who recently assailed any movement to collect campaign contributions from W.P.A. workers, the President backed up Hopkins with these words:

"I sincerely hope the people on relief will not contribute any money for the purpose of aiding any party."

Here the President was asked as to the national reaction to his assertion that entry into direct primaries by voters other than those of the party concerned constituted a violation of political morality and he observed that the response was 1,000 percent favorable.

CADIZ MINER'S PAIN IN NECK PROVES FRACTURE

CADIZ, Aug. 26—(UP)—Edward Turkal, Cadiz coal miner, had a "pain in the neck," but did not know what caused it. Today he found out—his neck was broken.

Turkal was in an automobile accident and after a preliminary examination he was dismissed.

He returned to work, but his neck began hurting so yesterday he visited a doctor. The doctor recommended another hospital examination and then the broken neck was discovered.

Turkal will now be forced to keep his neck in a cast for six weeks.

COMMUNITIES IN MONROE TOWNSHIP FIRST TO RECEIVE LIGHT SERVICE

FIRST home in Pickaway county to receive electricity under the program of the South Central Rural Electric Cooperative was that of Mrs. Marie Walters, in Five Points, shown in the top-center picture. M. O. Quail, Lancaster, lineman of the cooperative, is shown making connections on the house in the upper right picture. Interested villagers are watching Mr. Quail connect wires in the photo in the lower-center. C. M. Ochs, Lancaster, right, president of the board of trustees of the cooperative, came to Five Points from Lancaster to make the official acceptance of the line.

Cooperative Officials At Ceremonies

Official acceptance of 3.5 miles of the rural electrification line from Pherson to Five Points was made at 5 p. m. Thursday by the South Central Rural Electric Cooperative from the Andrews Asphalt Paving Co., Hamilton, contractor.

The line is the first completed and energized in Pickaway county under the rural electrification program of the cooperative. Acceptance was made by C. M. Ochs, Lancaster, president of the cooperative, who made the trip to Five Points from Lancaster so official details could be completed for turning on a light at the home of Mrs. Marie Walters and one on the flagpole at the village square.

The Walters home was the first to which a service line had been extended. Wiring at the home has not been completed but a fixture on the front porch was lighted. About 30 miles of lines in Monroe township will be constructed under the rural electrification project.

Many Witness Event

A fair-sized group of village residents gathered at the Walters home to watch the first light glow in Pickaway county under the rural electrification program.

M. O. Quail, Lancaster, lineman for the cooperative, completed the connections to the home. Officials present in addition to Mr. Ochs were Harry Montelius, Pickaway township, promotion manager for the cooperative, and George Pardonner, Hamilton, superintendent in charge of construction for the contractor.

Plans for home wiring in the district are being rushed as rapidly as possible so more lines may be energized as soon as construction is completed.

Construction will be under way in the near future on lines in the eastern portion of Pickaway county. Work is progressing rapidly on the cooperative's lines in the Amanda district and this crew will continue construction into the eastern portion of the county.

JUST MASK FOR FEVER; CHIEF PROVIDES SCARE

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26—(UP)—Children screamed, pedestrians shrank back and motorists forgot traffic signals today in the wake of Chief Assistant County Prosecutor Charles J. McNamee's drive to the criminal court building.

At his office, McNamee removed the cause of terror—a metal-breathing mask—which in profile combined the features of an eater and the proverbial man from Mars.

"For my hay fever," McNamee explained, "I can't let it get me down during the Fall campaign."

STREETS READY FOR TREATMENT WITH TAR, STONE

Washington street from Franklin street to the Pennsylvania railroad and W. Mill street from Scioto to Court street were given a treatment of oil Friday in preparation for resurfacing with tar and stone.

L. E. Miller, service director, said the streets will be resurfaced as quickly as possible, weather permitting. He hopes to have them open for traffic by the middle of next week.

When work is completed on Washington and Mill streets, the department will begin improvements on N. Pickaway street from the Hargus creek bridge to Northridge road. Seyfert avenue will be improved also.

LEE REYNOLDS HELD FOR GRAND JURY IN THEFT

Lee Reynolds, 41, W. Corwin street, was bound to the grand jury by Mayor W. B. Cady, Thursday, on a charge that he was the companion of William Reed, E. Union street, in the theft of seven sacks of sweet corn from P. W. Smallwood, who resides just west of Circleville.

Reynolds waived examination. He failed to furnish bond of $500.

Reed was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 60 days in jail on July 26 on the theft charge.

DUFFY ASKS JASTER TO RE-HIRE SPARKS

COLUMBUS, Aug. 26—(UP)—Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy today advised Highway Director John J. Jaster, Jr., to re-instate Harry A. Sparks, Columbus, whose state engineer's job was abolished by order of Governor Davey for testimony in the senate graft investigation that the state was overcharged for road material.

Duffy simultaneously withdrew as counsel for Director Jaster, defendant in the suit which Sparks brought in Common Pleas court to regain his position. The attorney general said he was convinced that an adequate defense could not be offered for the administration's action.

Sparks' job as engineer for the highway department was abolished on the governor's charge that he had been "disloyal." To have dismissed him outright would have brought on a civil service test case, as Sparks was employed in the classified service.

Evidence Insufficient

"I am now convinced that there is not sufficient evidence from which a defense in your behalf can be maintained," Duffy informed Jaster. "I am, therefore, advising you that it is my judgment that Sparks should be re-instated."

He advised the director that if the latter acceded to his request he would prepare a court entry as a means of closing the case. Duffy said that if the re-instatement recommendation was not followed, he could appoint an attorney to represent the highway director, "but specifically without compensation from the state."

The attorney general still represents the highway and liquor departments in taxpayers' suits brought against officials as a result of the senate investigation, but said he had reserved the right to withdraw whenever he thought it necessary. Thomas J. Herbert, Cleveland, Republican nominee for attorney general, has criticized him for defending state officials in these cases.

TWO TOOLS TOO MANY!

AKRON, Aug. 26—(UP)—Fifty W. P. A. workers "sat down" on a street project yesterday against two tools per man. Said a spokesman: "One shovel or pick per workman is all right. But they've given each man a pick and a shovel."

NEGRO BARBER ADMITS MURDER OF TURNER, 39

Ira Walker, 54, Faces First Degree Charges After Alleged Confession

VICTIM'S RITES HELD

Planned Killing Two Weeks, Ross County Deputy Declares

Ira Walker, 54, a Negro barber who removed from Austin, Texas, to Chillicothe about three years ago was held in the Ross county jail, Friday, awaiting a hearing on charges of first degree murder of Fred Turner, 39, formerly of Circleville. Walker, sheriff's deputies charged, admitted murdering Turner on the W. Water street hill in Chillicothe Wednesday afternoon. The shooting was the result of an argument over a Chillicothe Negroess, Walker is alleged to have admitted.

The first degree murder charge was to be filed in the office of Justice of the Peace Sam Briggs by Deputy Sheriff Don Lowery.

Lowery claimed that Walker, who was arrested shortly after Turner's body was found shot twice and beaten, admitted that he had "planned for two weeks" to kill Turner. He said that he used his own revolver and tossed it into the Scioto river after the crime was committed. Divers were seeking the revolver.

Funeral Held Friday

Funeral services were held in Chillicothe Friday for Turner, who lived in Circleville until 1920 during which time he was employed by the Container Corporation.

Walker, who had maintained innocence after his arrest, saying that he was in a theatre at the time the shooting took place, broke down during questioning. He said "it ain't no use to take a lot of time. I killed him and that's that."

He told the sheriff's aides that he took a walk Wednesday afternoon that took him to the vicinity of Turner's home in White Heaven, settlement near Chillicothe. Returning toward his home, he met Turner on an isolated shortcut path, he declared. Walker said that an argument started during which Turner struck him with a stone. "When he stooped over to get another stone," Walker is said to have admitted, "I shot him."

He said he shot him through the chest first and then through the back as he wheeled.

CORONER TO END PRISON INQUIRY BEFORE NIGHT

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26—(UP)—Coroner Charles H. Hersch announced today that he would arrest six "higher-ups" and guards at the Philadelphia county prison and break the case of the "roasted" convicts "wide open" before night.

Hersch, under an ancient law, had taken complete charge of the huge, high-walled prison where four convicts were roasted to death over last week-end and where 21 escaped the same fate only because they were not subjected to the "discipline" an hour longer.

He had preemptorily questioned all the prison guards, retaining the day-side force at the prison to subject each man to separate interrogation. After he had finished, he announced that he had the full story of the strenuous disciplinary action taken against ring-leaders of a hunger strike at the prison and had sworn to six more warrants. He specified that some of the warrants were for "higher-ups," the officials who had given the orders for turning on the steam full blast in the "Klondike" building after the strike leaders had been locked in its cramped cells.

EARL WINTER RESIGNS AS 'OHIOAN'S' EDITOR

COLUMBUS, Aug. 26—(UP)—Earl J. Winter, Cincinnati, editor of "The Ohioan," official publication of the Democratic party during the two terms of Governor Martin L. Davey, today announced his resignation. Francis W. Poulson, former state executive committee chairman and president of the corporation which published the paper, said its future would be determined at a meeting of 40 stockholders "within a week." Charles Sawyer, the Democratic nominee for governor, has announced that he will not sanction or support the paper.

WOMAN PERSECUTED 282 YEARS AGO AS WITCH 'CLEARED' BY VILLAGERS

HAMPTON, N. H., Aug. 26—(UP)—Eunice (Goody) Cole, persecuted 282 years ago for witchcraft, stood cleared of the charges today after an "absolution" ceremony yesterday in which 25,000 townfolk and Summer residents participated.

In accordance with a resolution adopted last Spring, Senior Selectman Elroy G. Shaw publicly burned facsimiles of papers concerning Goody's witchcraft trial and placed the ashes with soil from her grave in a memorial urn.

According to ancient town records, Goody was imprisoned for putting a curse on a neighbor's cows which supposedly caused them to die.

Later, after her board bill in a Boston jail had reached tremendous proportions, she was freed and returned here. At her death her body was impaled on a stake surmounted by a horse-shoe and burned in an effort to cheat the devil of her body.

LINDY AND WIFE ON LONG FLIGHT THROUGH RUSSIA

MOSCOW, Aug. 26—(UP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh left today for an airplane tour which will take them through southwestern Russia and on to the Crimea and Caucasus.

They planned to fly first to Kharkov, Kiev and Rostov, then down to the Black Sea area. If flying conditions proved good, it was understood they planned not to return to Moscow but to leave the Soviet Union by the Turkish or Rumanian borders.

The Lindberghs took off at 11:30 a. m. at the Central airport. A Russian plane, which will accompany them on their tour, left with them. Alexander C. Kirk, charge d'affaires of the American embassy, Lieut. Col. Philip H. Faymonville, American military attaché and prominent Russian aviators bade the Lindberghs farewell at the airport.

In nine days in Moscow, Lindbergh had time and opportunity to go over the problem of a Soviet-United States air route with Russian experts. He saw Gen. Dimitriyev Loshonov, chief of the air force; Prof. Otto Schmidt, aerial explorer of the Arctic, and Ivan Papanin, famous Arctic flier.

Democratic Executives Meet at 8 Friday Eve

The newly appointed Democratic Executive committee will meet for organization in the Common Pleas courtroom at 8 p. m. Friday.

Democratic leaders said reorganization of the committee was the only important business scheduled for the session. Lawrence E. Goeller, Beverly road, who has served as chairman for the last two years and was reappointed to the committee, is expected to be re-elected to the chairmanship. T. D. Krinn, E. Union street, has served as secretary of the committee for three terms, or six years. He was re-named on the committee.

Appointment of the committee, which will direct the Fall campaign, was made last Monday at a meeting of the Central committee. Clarence Holverling, E. Main street, and William T. J. Howard, E. Union street, were re-elected as chairman and secretary, respectively, at the Central committee meeting.

Communication Said To Be Most Blunt Authorized Since World War

PROPERTY SEIZURE HIT

Two Arbitration Methods Suggested By Secretary Of State

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26—(UP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull warned the Mexican government today that diplomatic relations between it and this government were near the breaking point because of Mexico's continued confiscation of American owned property.

The note was one of the longest and, according to veteran diplomats here, the most bluntly worded diplomatic communication delivered to any foreign government by the United States since the World War. It was handed to the Mexican ambassador, Dr. Francisco Castillo Najera last Monday, but made public only today because of the time required for the document to reach Mexico City by mail.

Hull reiterated previous proposals to arbitrate the claims for American-owned agrarian land expropriated by Mexico, but added: "I find it necessary emphatically to state that, after many years of patient endeavor on the part of this government to obtain just satisfaction for these claims without success, the government of the United States has regretfully reached the conclusion that it is impossible to adjust them by diplomacy."

Seizures Must Halt

He called on Mexico to desist from further seizures of American-owned properties pending a settlement for those already seized, unless such seizures are accompanied "by arrangements for adequate, prompt and effective payment."

Although the note bristled with charges of "confiscation" and of Mexican violation not alone of international treaties and international law, but the fundamental laws of all American nations regarding the sanctity of private property, he suggested two previously offered methods of arbitration:

1. That suggested in his note of July 21, whereby two commissions (Continued on Page Two)

FAYETTE CITY OFFERED NEW LIGHT SYSTEM

WASHINGTON C. H., Aug. 26—A new rate ordinance submitted by the Dayton Power and Light Co. to city council provides boulevard lights in the downtown district. Twenty-seven standards would be used.

Action on the ordinance was delayed until a committee of city officials meets with representatives of the Business and Civic Association to discuss a proposal to increase the lighting assessments in the area where the new lights would be placed.

OHIO SPORTSMEN TO DISCUSS END OF 'INFLUENCES'

State Conservation Division May Be Re-organized Under Program

CONFAB IS THREE DAYS

Sawyer And Bricker To Talk At Convention Being Held In St. Mary's

ST. MARYS, O., Aug. 26.—(UP)—The League of Ohio Sportsmen in convention here Aug. 26 to 28, will discuss legislation for re-organization of the state conservation division to remove it from so-called "political" influences.

The League contends that conservation divisions in other states have been divorced from political control to a large degree and recommends a similar organizational setup for Ohio.

Both candidates for governor in the November election, Democrat Charles Sawyer and Republican John W. Bricker, may give their view on the subject when they address the convention Aug. 27.

James Metzbaum, Democrat, and Paul M. Herbert, Republican, respective nominees of their parties for lieutenant-governor, also are scheduled to speak. A legislative luncheon to which all candidates for the state senate and house have been invited will be held at noon of the same day.

Representatives from 600 sportsmen's organizations in the state are expected to attend the three-day meeting. The Western Fish and Game Association, hosts to the convention, have planned various entertainment and athletic events for the sportsmen.

EUROPE TO FACE SERIOUS CRISES, DIPLOMATS SAY

ROME, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Europe within the next two weeks probably will face the most serious political situation since the German absorption of Austria, two important foreign diplomats predicted today in separate conversations.

They said that if Europe surmounted the critical period—and both thought it would—peace seemed reasonably assured until at least next Spring.

One of the informants specified Spain and Czechoslovakia as approaching critical status, but he did not exclude the possibility of a new Japanese-Russian flare-up which might further complicate the situation.

According to these informants the only recent cheerful development in Europe was the gesture of the little entente nations (Czechoslovakia, Roumania and Yugoslavia) toward Hungary.

They said this gesture increased the possibilities of a long awaited pacification of the Danubian basin provided other events in central Europe did not interfere.

The informants agreed in a belief that British-Italian relations were fast approaching the state in which they were before the negotiation of the British-Italian friendship treaty, and that French-Italian relations had not been so poor since the World War.

The informants blamed the present situation on the inability of the Spanish Nationalists to win the civil war this Summer.

ers, one selected by each country, arbitrate the claims.

2. That provided for by the so-called Gonda treaty of 1923, whereby the treaty's permanent commission at Washington would select one arbitrator to decide the disputed questions.

But the general tone of the note was negative. Hull said that the United States had received "not only with surprise, but with profound regret," the contentions made in Mexico's note of Aug. 3 that there is no rule under international law which makes obligatory the payment of immediate compensation.

He replied that such expropriation was bald confiscation, and in violation not only of international law, but of the guarantees contained in the Constitution of every American republic.

"Reduced to its essential terms," he said, "The contention asserted by the Mexican government... is plainly this: that any government may, on the ground that its municipal legislation so permits, or on the plea that its financial situation makes prompt and adequate compensation onerous or impossible, seize properties... utilize them for whatever purpose it sees fit, and refrain from providing effective payment therefor."

Contrary to Law

"...this is the first occasion in the history of the Western Hemisphere that such a theory has been seriously advanced. In the opinion of my government, the doctrine so proposed runs counter to the basic precepts of international law and of the law of every American republic, as well as to every principle of right, and justice on which the institutions of the American republics are founded."

Hull reiterated assertions of previous notes that "the government of the United States cannot admit that a foreign government may take the property of American nationals in disregard of the universally recognized rule of compensation under international law or admit that the rule of compensation can be nullified by any country through its own local legislation."

As in the note of July 21, he did not mention Mexico's seizure last Spring of oil properties valued at approximately $250,000,000. The note concerned solely the expropriation of agrarian lands, the victims of which, it said were "chiefly the owners of farms of moderate size with a claimed value of $10,132,388."

Diplomats here generally agreed that in proposing that the controversy be submitted to arbitration, Hull was laying the foundation for similar action in the case of the seized oil properties, Mexico, in its note of August 3, flatly rejected the proposed arbitration declaring there was nothing to arbitrate.

THREE BODIES REMOVED FROM WRECKED AIRPLANE

HONG KONG, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Chinese reports said today that three bodies, all unidentified, have been found in the wreckage of a Chinese National Aviation Corp. airplane forced down near Macao Wednesday by Japanese pursuit ships. British naval authorities said they had no knowledge of the finding.

Officials of C. N. A. C. announced that service on its lines would be suspended indefinitely. When service is resumed, they said, the movements of planes and passenger lists would not be made public.

Only three persons were known to have escaped alive. They were Pilot Hugh L. Woods, of McCracken, Kan., radio operator Loh Chao-Ming, and C. N. Lou, a Shanghai merchant.

1,562,934 VOTES CAST IN STATE IN AUG. 9 RACES

COLUMBUS, Aug. 26.—(UP)—A total of 901,125 Democratic and 661,809 Republican votes were cast at the Aug. 9th primary election, according to the official count made public today by Secretary of State William J. Kennedy.

While the total party vote reached 1,562,934, a check reveals that 30,281 Democrats who went to the polls voted for neither Governor Davey nor his successful opponent, Charles Sawyer, and that 93,590 Republicans who voted ignored the party's bitterest contest, that between Judge Arthur H. Day of the Ohio supreme court and Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati for the senatorial nomination.

The figures of the official count differ only slightly from the complete unofficial figures announced earlier.

The official figures show Sawyer's lead over Governor Davey to be 30,960, while Taft's lead over Judge Day was 76,321.

Sawyer received 450,902 votes as compared with 419,942 cast for Governor Davey; John W. Bricker, unopposed for the G. O. P. gubernatorial nomination received 581,326 votes. Taft received 322,270 votes as compared with 245,949 cast for Judge Day.

PITT GRADUATE WANTS JOB, OR WILL TAKE LIFE

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 26.—(UP)—The Pittsburgh Press received a letter today from an unemployed Pittsburgh university graduate who formally announced his intention to jump from a downtown skyscraper on Sept. 1 unless he gets a job within that time.

The writer said he was 25 years old, has been out of work for five months, and "tired of living because of no work." He insisted he did not want a job out of pity, but preferred one with a future to it. The letter, which was unsigned, said the contemplated suicide would be "one of the most spectacular" the city has ever seen. It was dated Aug. 25.

One paragraph of the letter was printed in the hope that one of the youth's associates might aid in identifying the writer. Similar incidents have occurred in New York and on the West Coast. In New York, a man was given a job after threatening suicide, while a West Coast woman perched on a window ledge and threatened to jump unless she was given work.

WEINBERG BACK FOR ANOTHER CROSS-GRILLING

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(UP)—George Weinberg, burglar who became business manager for the $20,000,000 lottery racket operated by Dutch Schultz, returned today to the merciless cross-examination of counsel for James J. Hines, Tammany boss accused of furnishing protection to Schultz.

It was Weinberg's third day of cross-examination by Lloyd Paul Stryker, chief defense counsel, who has harried the hawk-faced gangster with his harlequin past as a burglar, perjurer and racketeer. Weinberg, who testified that Hines took from $250 to $1,000 a week from the racket as salary, has been the chief witness so far produced by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey.

Stryker opened his attack on Weinberg today after attempting to knock down the testimony of Dudley Brothwell, ruddy-faced proprietor of a Fairfield, Conn., riding stable frequented by Dutch Schultz during the Summer of 1935.

It was there, according to Brothwell, that Hines met Schultz, another man and two women in August, 1935, thus providing a link to Weinberg's previous direct testimony that Hines' salary had been reduced from $500 weekly to $250 at that time, when Schultz was hard pressed by federal income tax investigation. The reduction, according to Weinberg, took place at a meeting in a Bridgeport, Conn., hotel, five miles away from the riding stables.

UNITED PARTY OF HUNGARIANS AIDS SUDETENS

Another Minority To Join Nazis In Czechoslovakia Seeking Concessions

RUNCIMAN HEARS FACTS

Esterhazy And Henlein Go Hand In Hand On All Major Questions

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 26—(UP)—Leaders of the Hungarian minority have agreed to form a common front with the Sudeten German party in negotiations with the government, it was reported today.

This news of increased Hungarian-German friendliness came as the inner political council of the cabinet adopted a new program to be offered as a basis for minority negotiations.

Count Janos Esterhazy, a leader of the United Hungarian party, visited Viscount Runciman, British government minority adviser, yesterday afternoon.

A usually reliable informant said Esterhazy told Runciman that he and Konrad Henlein, Sudeten German party leader, were making a common front wherever possible on the minorities problem. Esterhazy said that though there was an understanding regarding general principles, his party would consider independently and new proposals offered by the government. But he added that it was unlikely that the final decision of the Hungarians would differ from that of the Sudetens.

To Outline Plan
Premier Milan Hodza was expected to outline the government's new minorities plan to Ernst Kundt, parliamentary leader of the German minority party, at a conference today.

He outlined it to Viscount Runciman, in advance of its formal cabinet approval, Wednesday. Frank T. A. Ashton-Gwatkin of the British advisory delegation was believed to have taken the outline to London where he went to consult government leaders there.

Under the program approved by the inner council of the cabinet last night the government intends to offer further sacrifices by way of autonomous rule not only to the German but to other minorities. But primarily, it was hoped that the new program would enable the government to resume direct negotiations with the Henlein party soon.

It is proposed that the government shall offer the new program to the Henleinites as a basis for business negotiations, and it will be up to the Henleinites to accept it or reject it.

Authoritative informants said that the new program completely satisfied half of the eight-point German minority demands and would satisfy the other half in part.

Bicycle Safety Taught

TOLEDO (UP)—Bicycle safety demonstrations at all city playgrounds have been held because accidents have doubled in the past five years. More than 700 persons were killed in the United States in bicycle-auto collisions during 1937, Jay E. Thompson, secretary of the Toledo Safety Council, said.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES,
O. S. U. floriculturist

QUESTION: Will you please tell me when I can sow perennial seed? How should I take care of it?

ANSWER: You can sow your perennial seed any time now. Since we are likely to have some hot, dry weather, my recommendation is that you make a little wooden frame 2 by 3 feet, 3 by 6 feet, or any convenient size, using 1-inch boards and make the frame about six or eight inches high. Set this frame right on top of the ground. Make a very fine seedbed. If your garden soil is a heavy clay, I would mix enough of it for the seedbed with equal parts of sand, leaf mold, and peat moss. Sift this through a one-eighth-inch screen. You should have a layer of this mixture several inches thick on top of the soil. I would sow my seeds in rows, covering them with about one-eighth inch of the sifted mixture. I believe you will find it will pay to cover the top of the frame with cheesecloth. This will cut down some of the light and considerable evaporation. Water the seedbed daily from now until the seedlings are established. Do not sow your seed too thick since the seedlings should be left in this seedbed until next spring in most instances.

QUESTION: Does rabbit manure have any value as a fertilizer in the garden?

ANSWER: Although I do not have the analysis of rabbit manure, I believe you will find it will have about the same value as sheep manure. You either can let it stand until it decomposes slightly or you can mix it with small quantities of soil and compost it and then use the compost as a top dressing for your lawn and flower beds.

QUESTION: I am just starting a garden and would like to know how you would suggest that I go about learning something about it.

ANSWER: First, I would recommend that you go to your county agricultural agent and ask him for a complete set of our bulletins on gardening; that you write to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. and ask them for a list of their garden bulletins; and that you visit your local library and see what books they have on gardening which might interest you. There are also a number of garden books in the State Library, State Office Building, Columbus, which you may borrow. From these sources, by constant reading and study, together with trying out the different ideas in your own garden, you will be surprised how much you can learn in a year.

QUESTION: I am interested in garden poetry and wonder if you could tell me where I could find some.

ANSWER: Several books of garden poetry that I believe you will enjoy are: AMONG THE FLOWERS AND TREES WITH THE POETS by Walt and Leonard; GARDEN GRACE by Louise Driscoll; GARDEN WHIMSEYS by Charlotte Lomas.

QUESTION: There is a very coarse grass in my lawn which my neighbor tells me is crab grass. Can you tell me what I can do about it?

ANSWER: It is getting pretty late in the season to do very much now, but you could con-

It was tough going for the air-cooling plant engineer in the Columbia Playhouse where Benny Goodman and his band swing out on their regular Tuesday night, 8:30 p. m. broadcasts. Here's his complaint.

"I'm glad when Benny is on the road. When he's in here it's the toughest half hour of my life. I have to go to the drug store right afterwards and cool off."

PRIMARY RACES ROUSE VOTERS IN CALIFORNIA

McAdoo And Merriam Top Figures In Aug. 30 Balloting

ALL OFFICES SOUGHT

President's Supporter To Find Strong Foes In Senatorial Chase

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 26—(UP)—Sen. William Gibbs McAdoo's bid for renomination, backed by the endorsement of President Roosevelt, features the California primary election Aug. 30. In addition, the state this year elects a full congressional delegation and a complete slate of state officials, including governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general.

Although the senatorial contest provides the major national interest, the gubernatorial race commands the greatest share of state attention.

Democratic forces, bulwarked by a commanding lead in party registration, are in a scrambled race for the nomination. The vote will be divided among five candidates, but only State Sen. Culbert L. Olson of Los Angeles and Sheriff Daniel C. Murphy of San Francisco are conceded a chance.

On the Republican side, Gov. Frank F. Merriam, 72-year-old native of Iowa who came up through political ranks to the state's highest office, is opposed by Lieut.-Gov. George J. Hatfield.

Downey Against McAdoo
McAdoo may encounter strong opposition from Sheridan Downey, one of California's original "Roosevelt for President" men and running mate of Upton Sinclair in the bitterly fought governorship race of 1934.

Downey polled more than 1,000,000 votes in that fight, which resulted in Sinclair's defeat by Merriam.

Republican candidates for the senate position are led by Ray L. Riley, state railroad commissioner, who is stressing a "common sense" approach to government, and Philip Bancroft, son of the historian. Bancroft's campaign speeches have been enlivened by a forthright attack on New Deal policies and a demand for amendments to the Wagner Labor Relations Act to "give employers a square deal."

In his campaign for renomination and re-election Merriam faces a hard struggle. Succeeding to the office with the death of colorful James Rolph, Jr., in 1934, Merriam, an experienced campaigner, defeated Sinclair in a campaign which laid great emphasis on the author's more radical writings. Movie stars were assessed a day's salary to fight the "Red Menace."

Merriam Denounces C.I.O.
Apparently on the theory that what has been successful might as well be used again, the governor has directed a series of blasts against "Communist-led" labor forces, which, he charged, have brought the state internal troubles. Merriam denounced the Committee for Industrial Organization as the source of the trouble.

His administration of state affairs, on the other hand, has been attacked by Hatfield and Democratic opponents as extravagant and reactionary.

Most of the governor's fire has obviously been aimed at Olson, whose sympathy with the labor movement has been a matter of record in the state senate and in campaign speeches. Merriam, apparently, believes Olson will be the Democrat who will contest with the Republican winner next fall.

In the opinion of many non-partisan observers, Olson, a silvery haired man, may be the first Democrat to occupy the governor's chair in California since James H. Budd in 1894.

Chairman of the Democratic party in 1934, the Los Angeles senator came in on the End Poverty in California popularity wave, the celebrated EPIC movement fathomed by Sinclair.

Olson Has Labor Backing
Olson is popular with labor and the liberal group in general. He has the so called "left wing" movie group, including stars Melvyn Douglas and Lionel Stander, making the one-night stand in his behalf.

But overshadowing the race for political office, at present at least, is the newest pension scheme to emanate from Southern California. Proponents of the idea, known as the "Ham and Eggs for every Californian" proposal, suggest that a pension plan be worked out guaranteeing the payment of $30 weekly to every resident past 50.

Opponents, who have compared the plan to the social credit experiment in Alberta, termed it fantastic and unworkable, and have petitioned the state Supreme Court to deny it a place on the November ballot. The plan proposes an amendment to the state

SEAMAN KILLS SWEETHEART, 30, AFTER QUARREL

Former Toledoan, Daughter Of Policeman, Clubbed In San Francisco

CONFESSION CLAIMED
Rolling Pin Used To End Life; "Running Around," Slayer Claims

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26—(UP)—Ramon Lee Hughes, 36-year old seaman, told police today that he mutilated and killed his sweetheart because "she wouldn't stop running around with guys." Crazed by liquor and jealousy, Hughes staggered through downtown crowds for five blocks before he encountered a police officer and told him: "I've just killed my wife."

Traffic Patrolman George Mildahn was skeptical until Hughes drew from his pocket a piece of bloody flesh.

Five minutes later the homicide squad, led by Hughes to an apartment, found, almost nude, her head crushed by a rolling pin and a hangman's noose around her neck, the body of Jean Montgomery, 30.

Written on her body in indelible pencil was: "Honey I Love You." There were other notes around the room written by Hughes after he killed her.

While police studied the death scene, Hughes sat dejectedly, holding his head between his hands.

"She ain't dead is she?" he said. "How I love that woman!"

Came from Toledo

Mrs. John Keith, 24, was found asleep in an adjoining room. She told police that the slain woman came to San Francisco five years ago from Toledo, O., where her father is a policeman.

She said Hughes met her while she still was married to a Centralia, Wash., logger, James Montgomery. Hughes supplied her with funds for a divorce. Mrs. Keith said, and had been living with her with the intention of marrying her.

She described Hughes as "awfully jealous" and said he had accused her of going with other men while he was at sea.

Hughes gave police a statement after he had been charged with first degree murder.

He said he could remember hitting her over the head with a rolling pin.

"She came at me with it during a quarrel," he said. "I took it away from her."

No Motive Given

Police said Hughes gave no motive in his signed statement other than the quarrel. In questioning at the apartment house he had turned to one of his guards and said:

"I warned her—I warned her I'd kill her if she didn't stop running around with guys."

One note was on a dresser. It was stained with blood and read: "Sweetheart from darling. I love you and only you. I hope to go the same way as you for I love you. I am going to give myself up right now and will see you wherever your may go for I love you I love you. Your daddy Ray. "P. S. Call at 303 and get the low down."

The slaying occurred in room 302. In room 303, police found Mrs. Keith asleep, and she gave them what "low down" she could.

Trapper Outruns Coyote

LAWTON, Okla. (UP)—John J. Pickens who has trapped 73 coyotes in the Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge, spotted a 3-month-old coyote pup while driving through the refuge. He chased it afoot for half a mile across rocky slopes before the tired animal dodged into a rock crevice. Pickens pulled it out by the tail.

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for August 23 is I Samuel 2:12-4:18, especially 3:11-14, 4:12-18, the Golden Text being Proverbs 22:6, "Train up a child in the way he should go.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

ELI WAS so busy with the responsibilities of other people's children that he made a sorry mess of rearing his own disgraceful sons, Hophni and Phinehas. But after discovering his failure there he did not do so badly with little Samuel. Other ministers have made Eli's mistake with their sons, but but by no means enough of them to justify the familiar slur about "preachers' sons and deacons' daughters".

Preachers' Sons in Who's Who

Those who overplay such illustrations as Eli's sons should note that the children of no other profession or trade afford so many names for the pages of "Who's Who in America" as do preachers' children. Entitled to a proportion of one name to every 220, they provide, instead, one name out of every 12. Similarly, 12 of 51 characters in the Hall of Fame in the National Capitol were ministers' sons, and of the 65 persons included in the Hall of Fame of New York university, prior to 1920, 11 were such paragonage children as Ralph Waldo Emerson, Jonathan Edwards, Samuel

Eli's Character

Eli's greatness of soul is seen in the utter absence of envy or bitterness shown by him when, because of his son's unworthiness he was set aside and the youthful Samuel raised up in his stead. When after a long period of silence from heaven, God spoke to the child Samuel instead of to the aged minister, and revealed his purpose of judgment, Eli displayed no jealousy or rebellion. He was willing to be a cast-away if only God's ark be kept safe and God's cause triumph over his ene-

Ross County Republicans Oust "Old Guard" Board

CHILLICOTHE, Aug. 26—Attorney Byron Blair was chairman of the Ross County Republican central committee, today, and a new executive committee of 15, including only two of the old members had been named at a re-organization meeting held in the Phillips' law office.

Many who have held important party posts for years were unseated when a complete insurgent state won approval of a small majority of the central committeemen, representing 55 of the 60 precincts in the county.

Among those deposed were Charles Davenport, candidate for state representative, who for 25 years has been chairman of the central committee; Milton J. Scott, employee of Democratic State Treasurer Clarence Knisley, who has been influential in Ross county Republican politics for years; John P. Phillips, Jr., the Republican state central committeeman from the 11th congressional district and others whose names have been associated with the executive committee.

Rex Bolles of Harrison township was elected permanent secretary of the central committee, succeeding Creed Silbaugh.

On the new executive committee are: Messrs. Peter J. Blosser, William Dyer, Byron Blair, Harold H. Brown, Lawrence Jackman and Ira Korst from Chillicothe; Mrs. Loy E. Hoyt of Scioto township; Arthur Crago of Green township; George Stanhope of Scioto township; Albert Maag of Cole-rain township; Otis Martin of Deerfield township; Lyle Ware of Barksdale township; John Clifton of Union township; C. P. Haynes of Bainbridge and Willard Peterson of Concord township.

Only Mr. Dyer and Mr. Peterson were members of the retiring executive committee.

Others on the old executive committee were Charles E. Capple, Harry B. Grace, Dr. F. T. Marr, Dr. John L. Moriarity, John P. Phillips, Jr., William T. Rardin, mies. The news of the death in battle of Hophni and Phinehas affected him far less than the news that God's holy ark of the covenant had fallen into the hands of the Philistines. Eli's neck may have been broken in his fall, but he died not of this, but of a broken heart: "He that brought the tidings said, Israel is fled before the Philistines, and there hath been also a great slaughter among the people, and thy two sons also, Hophni and Phinehas, are dead, and the ark of God is taken. And it came to pass, when he made mention of the ark of God, that Eli fell from off the seat backward by the side of the gate; and his neck brake, and he died." Oh that Eli had only "ruled well his own house, having his children in subjection with all gravity!"

A date for organization of the new executive committee has not been set.

Mr. Blair, as chairman of the central committee, had no statement to make, other than to express the belief that the committee would not carry reorganization differences into the campaign, but would back the entire Republican ticket from top to bottom.

Mr. Davenport, the retiring chairman, in a statement, said:

"I am just a plain American citizen, running for the office of representative of all the people in the General Assembly from Ross county. Some of my friends thought I had had the chairman of the central committee long enough. Twenty-five years is a long time, and I want to thank my friends, for voting for me — and at this time thank all the Old Bunch for being so kind to me.

"I hope Blair and Bolles have success in their new job, they will find it no bed of roses.

"But for the good of the Republican party of Ross county, I wish all the NEW DEAL in the Republican ranks success.

"I hope that the committeemen that voted against me will not carry it any farther, not only because I am a candidate, but for the good of the other candidates in Ross county and the state, I am still a Republican, win or lose. Thanks to all."

OPEN LETTERS

TO CHILDREN

YOUNGSTERS: Schools are being made ready for Circleville and Pickaway county children. In some parts of the county new additions are being erected; others are being made ready for construction. In some places, the old ones are being remodeled, or their rooms are freshly painted, or just scrubbed, windows washed clean and shining, waiting for the children and the first day of school, which is not far off. Are the children equally ready? Have they been to the family doctor to be looked over? He can tell whether they are up to standard, getting the proper food for their age. A few suggestions from him may be worth their weight in gold to the child and his parents. How about their teeth? Their eyes? A filling in time saves nine. And if they need glasses, their comfort, their safety, their good grades in school, their posture, their social ease with other children may all depend on having their eyes properly fitted. They may need new clothes, of course—something bright and attractive to give an air to the first day. And money must be ready for books and tablets, shiny new pencils and rulers. Good tools mean much to any workman. Boys and girls going to school are serious workmen at fine, constructive jobs. They are building themselves and the future of America. Let them be ready and give them a good start.

CIRCUITEER.

TO HALL OFFICIALS

FOLK: I am pleased to observe that some of the dead vines have been removed from Memorial Hall. This work should be continued until all the dead and unsightly vines have been eliminated. The appearance of Memorial Hall will be helped greatly when the work has been completed. Every effort should be made to keep the building as sightly and attractive as possible because, after all, it represents a memorial to war veterans who gave their all for their nation. Congratulations for the good work; keep it up.

CIRCUITEER.

TO FARM OPERATORS

FRIENDS: The corn cutting season is nearing and with it comes a labor problem. Scores of men from Kentucky and West Virginia move into Central Ohio every year for corn cutting. The funds they obtain return with them and do not flow through county business channels. These men take work from Pickaway countians. Some who have moved their families into the county create problems for relief officials. Pickaway county landowners and operators should establish a steadfast rule that work be provided for home folk first. If it is impossible to obtain sufficient labor in the community then the outsiders should be given employment. Pickaway county relief officials have pared the relief rolls as closely as possible. If more Pickaway countians obtain employment that means a reduction of relief costs. Since next week brings the opening of the corn cutting season, I suggest that Pickaway countians give those in their communities the first opportunity for employment. Their money stays in Pickaway county, benefitting Pickaway countians.

CIRCUITEER.

TO EARL A. SMITH

CAMPAIGN CHIEF: Your acceptance of appointment as Roll Call chairman for the Pickaway county Red Cross campaign for funds is appreciated by officials of the county chapter. The Red Cross has done much good in Circleville and Pickaway county and only through continued membership contributions can the good work be carried on. The Red Cross, as an active organization, will go on for years and years and it needs the support of every community. The local chapter's drives have nearly always been successful because of careful organization. I hope that you put forth every effort to make the Roll Call 100 percent successful.

CIRCUITEER.

TO HIGHWAY OFFICIALS

GENTLEMEN: What has happened to the project for improving Route 22, West of the Scioto river, to place the roadway above high waters? No announcements have been made concerning the program in recent months. It was generally believed that the project would be under construction during the late Summer or Fall when weather would be suitable. The project is of such vital importance to Circleville residents we get nervous when no information about it is forthcoming. The state highway department has done all it can accomplish. The plans are in the hands of officials in Washington D. C. from which city the next step is awaited.

CIRCUITEER.

TO RURAL FOLK

RESIDENTS: Frequently the sheriff's department receives reports from county residents who have been the victims of fraudulent salesmen. They are sold merchandise to be delivered at a later date and usually pay down a part or all of the cost of the article purchased. Receipts given usually are made out in such a way that they are of no benefit to officers. Persons purchasing merchandise from strangers should take license numbers of the salesmen that will be a benefit to officers in case any investigation develops. Few persons realize the advantage of an auto license number in checking up on any type of a case.

World At A Glance

Judging from Democratic primary results thus far the party still is split pretty wide open between "pro" and "anti" New Dealers.

President Roosevelt appears to be simply popular personally. If he were to run right now for a third term the indications are that he would win handsomely, regardless of the two-term precedent. But when Democratic voters come to the selection of their senatorial, representative and state candidates they seem inclined to do their choosing without much regard for what presumably are his wishes.

To be sure, some New Dealers have been renominated, but there have been no slaughter of the "antis" either.

THIS YEAR'S PROSPECTS
The Republicans probably will gain in November a very few senate seats, quite a handful of representatives' seats and maybe two or three governorships.

However, that will be (if it proves to be a sound prediction) not because of any appreciable loss in Rooseveltian prestige but because recent Democratic majorities have been abnormal.

The internal Democratic conflict is entirely a different matter.

STEWART SORTS THEM OUT
Of the anti-New Deal Jeffersonians who are renominated most are likely to be re-elected; otherwise they would not have been renominated.

Of the pro-New Dealers who are nominated or renominated some are likely to be defeated in November because of anti-New Deal Democratic votes cast for their Republican opponents.

On such a basis the combined Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats in the next congress should be stronger than they were at the last session, and they were strong enough then to throw a crimp into major New Deal legislative proposals.

True, there are some virtually New Deal Republicans but not many of them.

EMBARRASSING?

There is this item to be taken into consideration: Anti-New Deal Democrats, seeking renomination, quite numerous have assured voters that they are NOT "antis".

They ARE "antis" and every well-informed person ought to know it, but they may be taken at their word by a considerable number of New Deal voters who are not as well-informed as they might be.

Supposing this to be the case it will not be surprising if a sizable block of Democratic "antis" get back into congress on the theory that they are "pros."

The nub of it is this: After having declared themselves, for the current campaign's purposes, as pro-New Dealers, will these gentry find it embarrassing, if renominated and re-elected, to continue voting anti-New Dealerishly?

LIP SERVICE?

In short: Anti-New Deal Democrats are afraid of the New Deal. If they admit their "anti"-ishness they are fearful of being retired; so they SAY they are New Dealers.

On the opposite hand, the New Deal is afraid of the Democratic "antis". If it attempts to "purge" them and falls it suffers a mightily conspicuous slap in the face, which must be extremely damaging to its prestige.

A PERSONAL TRIUMPH

President Roosevelt's western tour was a great triumph for him—individually.

Had it been followed, at the western primaries, by a veritable massacre of anti-New Deal candidates for renomination all would have been well from the New Deal standpoint.

It was not so followed.

The populace simply was delirious over "F. D." himself. Yet in subsequent primary voting the Democratic "pros" and "antis" broke about 50-50. They seem to be about where they were before the tour started—which means that "F. D." is a good deal of a popular idol, but cannot necessarily nominate and elect his own congress and all the governors.

DIET AND HEALTH

Immunization First 'Safety First' Rule

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
TODAY THE one fundamentally necessary preparation for the child who enters school for the first time is to be immunized against diphtheria.

By carrying out this procedure on a widespread scale, it has been possible almost to wipe this ancient scourge of the face of the earth. It is one of the most astonishing accomplishments of the modern age. It takes a moment of thought to realize how great and important the change has been. There are, indeed, today, few young parents who realize the cold grip of fear that clutched the heart of their predecessors—the young parents of fifty years ago—when the thought of diphtheria came to them.

The disease would run through whole schoolrooms, neighborhoods and families, striking down the children of five to ten years of age.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

In most instances. When it came, there was nothing certain to do about it. Mothers would sit for nights by the beds of the feverish little victims, waiting to dislodge the membrane if it should cover the breathing aperture. This was futile, but general gossip made them feel they should do it. Even so death occurred, under the best of circumstances, in about a third of the cases.

Now all this is changed. The horror is gone. In the first place, if diphtheria does strike, there is antitoxin as a form of treatment, which, if given early, will save 99 cases out of a hundred.

Spread Can Be Controlled
But far more important than that, is that the spread of the disease can be entirely controlled by giving active immunization. This is done by the hypodermic injection of diphtheria toxoid. Toxoid is the toxin of diphtheria which has been incubated at 38 degrees to 40 degrees centigrade for four to six weeks. This causes it to lose its toxicity, but it retains its antigenic properties—that is, it retains the property to cause the body to produce its own antitoxin and immune substances against diphtheria.

It is recommended that this immunization be given to the infant on reaching the age of one year. It is imperative that it be given to children before they enter school for the first time.

What this has done to the incidence of the terrific old plague, when carried out on a large scale, is, as I have said at the beginning, simply astonishing. In well immunized communities the disease has been reduced to the vanishing point.

Even though it were to reach the vanishing point, however, it must still be carried out, because contagious diseases have a way of sticking around, no matter how little one sees of them, and breaking out at some inopportune moment.

Nurses entering training schools should also be immunized in this way. Especially is this true of girls coming from rural communities. In cities, contact immunity develops very widely, but these country-bred girls are found to be susceptible to diphtheria in about 80 per cent of cases.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "The Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CHAPTER 48

JULIAN EXPLAINED that he had borrowed the motorcycle when, unexpectedly, he had picked up Nick Luigi's trail. With Noel riding in front, they soon reached a crossroad where there were two officers and Julian's car.

Julian made a brief explanation to the officers, then he and Noel were in his car. He told Noel that he had been watching Luigi every day since her disappearance. A squad of officers were helping him, but all of them had lost Luigi's trail time and time again. They probably never would have picked it up again had it not been for a blond young man who came up to where they were stationed on a corner near the city limits, and said that Luigi was headed toward New Orleans with the girl.

It was Ray Vincent, of course, Noel told herself. He had helped her again at a great risk. Some time she'd find him—she was sure she would.

Then Julian told her the other things that had happened leading up to her rescue. When she hadn't kept her appointment to bring the child, he had become anxious, had phoned the Garwoods with the same result as before. She had not been called to the phone. The next morning he had forced his way into the Garwood house. And the minute he had seen the woman supposed to be Fay Garwood, he knew she was an imposter. So he had called in the police to make investigations.

"And Betsy?" Noel asked eagerly.

"She's safe with friends and keeps asking for you."

"I'll go to her at once," Noel said. "She's the only person in the world who needs me. Or perhaps she doesn't now," she finished undecidedly.

"So she's the only one who needs you, is she?" Julian asked, not looking at her. Then he added that he supposed she was anxious to hear more about the Garwood affair.

Noel told him what Nick had told her about the Garwoods, or rather supposed-to-be Garwoods. "Nick wasn't in on it," Noel went on, "but some of his friends were."

"It wasn't wise to let him go," Julian began.

"He saved my life at the risk of his own," Noel interrupted him. "Julian, I couldn't have done anything else."

"Of course, I understand," Julian replied. Then he told her that the police had had a full confession from the Japanese cook.

"Everything this man said," he went on, "made me realize why they were keeping you. You were valuable to them. The strange coincidence of your handwriting being identical with the real Fay Garwood's solved their problem of getting money from the bank."

Then when you told this woman that you did not believe Betsy was her child, they suspected you of knowing more than you did. So you were abducted to keep you from talking."

He stopped a minute, then resumed, "But whether or not they actually would have succeeded in their scheme to turn all the Garwood property into cash, with you to sign the deeds and papers, is problematical."

"It was a clever plot," Noel observed.

"And it might have succeeded if it hadn't been for you. I was sure something was seriously wrong when you didn't come with the child."

Noel told him that she was going down the back stairs with the child in her arms, and had just reached the yard when she had been abducted. Then she asked about Laurie and Jimmy.

"Planning to be married soon. Laurie thinks a miracle happened. She doesn't know yet why Jimmy's mother had a change of heart. But I have my own ideas about that."

Noel smiled. Then she said earnestly, "Julian, I've found out that there aren't any truly mean people in the world. All the hateful, selfish things they do is caused by their constant fear of the future. I believe people would always be kind and good if they didn't have to worry about getting money for their needs."

She saw that he looked very serious.

"You are right," Julian agreed thoughtfully. Then he told her that Laurie had sent Noel word that she could have the job at the De Luxe. "She seemed to think you'd want it," Julian finished.

Noel flushed. "Laurie is such a darling," she said warmly. "She has taught me so much. I'm going to see that she has a beautiful wedding with orchids and all the things she would want. She loves beauty so."

"Yes, I've noticed it," Julian agreed. Then there was a sudden poignant silence. Julian broke it at last by saying: "Do you suppose this conversation will ever get around to me?"

Noel drew a quick breath. "Oh, as for you," she began brightly, "you'll be married soon to your beautiful and highly efficient Miss Chester and will live happily ever afterward. And I hope—that all your children will be doctors and trained nurses."

"Noel," Julian's voice had a queer unsteady tone, "so you read that notice in the Scimitar?"

"Oh, yes," Noel came back, determined to be nonchalant, "even a person as shallow as myself sometimes has been known to scan the papers."

Julian shook his head hopelessly. "Once again I don't know whether to kiss you or spank you."

"If you dare kiss me now—" Noel's voice was low but in deadly earnest.

To her surprise Julian turned the car. "We're going to have this out right here," he said.

They were on a country road about a mile from the city. He stopped the car under a tall elm with gracefully low-hanging branches.

"Pretty spot," Noel said lightly, "but I don't see—"

She caught a glimpse of Julian's face, saw that he looked very serious. Then she was waiting for him to speak, her heart suddenly beginning to throb high in her throat.

"Ruth Chester went entirely too far when she—when that notice was put in the paper," Julian began. "She explained it by saying that a reporter friend had been teasing her and that somehow he took it for granted that there was an engagement between us."

Noel, being a woman, now understood that it was a ruse on the part of Ruth Chester. Ruth took a chance thinking that the notice might have two effects. First, it might cause Noel to go back to her own frivolous world, secondly, Julian might let it stand.

"I never asked Ruth Chester to be my wife," Julian said passionately. "I never intended marrying her for I never wanted any girl in the world except you."

Rapture sprang into Noel's eyes, but she remained very still as Julian went on: "There were times when I actually persuaded myself that I could get you out of my life and out of my heart. But all the time I knew it could never be done. Then at last I gave up trying. I knew that even if a marriage between us might have but a slight chance for success, I had to have you. I couldn't go on without you," his voice broke. Then he added, "You remember I told you I had something to tell you?"

She nodded. "I remember you said it was something that would affect our friendship," Noel's voice was still slightly puzzled.

"It would have. We couldn't keep on trying merely to be friends when I wanted to marry you more than anything else on earth. It wasn't a very good idea, trying to be friends, you see."

"No, it wasn't," Noel admitted smiling.

"And so now, Noel, I'm asking you if you'll marry me. Humbly. Reverently. I would get down on my knees and kiss the hem of your dress—except I believe it isn't being done any more. But that's how I feel about you, dear."

"I still have a disgusting lot of money," she reminded him tenderly.

"We won't bother about that any more," Julian said with a new confidence. Then he asked whimsically, "And now, are you going to scream for help if I kiss you?"

"No, but I—shall probably cry," Noel said, a sob in her voice.

Julian took her into his arms then and kissed her warmly. "I've loved you always—always," he murmured. "Even when I told you I had no intention of falling in love with you. That was purely a defense mechanism, you see, and it didn't work at all."

"But you were right," Noel said, her face sweetly serious. "I had to earn your love first. Make myself into the kind of wife you needed."

"And you have succeeded," he answered warmly. "After all, the only thing necessary was for you to find your real self, which was hidden under the artificial life you led. I sadly misjudged you."

She shook her head. "I was a completely selfish person. But I know now I could never go back to the old life—not even if I didn't have you."

"But we have each other now," he emphasized happily. "We can make all the necessary adjustments. We can share each other's lives."

"We can do better than that," she said softly. "We can merge our two worlds. I can have a real part in your work, for while you're giving medical treatment free to your charity patients and looking after their physical needs, I'll be looking after their material needs, seeing that they have food and fresh air and decent clothing—all the things so important to their well-being and contentment."

Julian was so touched for a moment he could not speak. At last he said, "That is a beautiful thought, Noel. Nothing in the world could make me happier." Then he asked: "When will you marry me, my dear? I am selfish—I want it to be tomorrow."

"Then we'll make it—tomorrow," she whispered, lifting her ardent face to his.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

A RULE TO BE BROKEN
"DON'T lead away from a king" is a pretty good rule for openings against suit contracts, so long as the word "never" is not incorporated in it. At the proper time that rule is more honored in the breach than in the observance. "Know the rules and when to break them" is good advice for anyone.

South, a lead of any of those suits would apparently make an extra trick for declarer. He therefore decided to try the unorthodox lead away from three to the K of clubs. This play prevented declarer from making his contract, as he played for a trump break and was set one. Any other lead would have enabled South to make the contract easily, as spades or hearts could have been set up to prevent a club loser.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

SPEARMINT is the most common of the perennial herbs. To get the best flavor from it plant it in the shade and cut it frequently to get new and tender growth.

As shown in this Garden-Graph, spearmint can be potted as a house plant for use indoors during the Winter months. Cut a sod containing the mint plants of a size to fit a common flower pot. Other methods of growing it indoors include cutting sods of the plants and placing them in boxes or in an unused fernery.

Rosemary is another herb which can be kept over winter in a pot. In fact, many can be tried, including bergamot, mint, wild thyme, penny royal, apple mint, rue, germander lavender, basil and summer savory.

TONY SEES JOHN

HENRY PLASTER ITALIAN BOXER

NUTLEY, N. J., Aug. 26.—(UP)—Tony (Two Ton) Galento, the Orange, N. J. heavyweight who was seriously ill of pneumonia last month, still believes he can lick light-heavyweight champion John Henry Lewis of Phoenix, Ariz.

Galento, whose scheduled bout with Lewis was postponed when he became sick, saw the champion knock-out Dominick Ceccarelli of Italy in the third round of a scheduled ten-round non-title bout last night.

"They both were lousy," said Tony. "Why, I could lick that Lewis right now."

Lewis finished his man after 1:15 of the third round. In the second, the Italian twice connected late in the round with hard rights. Angered, Lewis dropped Dominick with a hard right for a count of nine. When the Italian got up, Lewis floored him for keeps with a short right hook.

Lewis weighed 182½; Ceccarelli, 179.

Pirates Drop Pair And So Do Reds; Giants, Cubs Gain

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Don't hand the National league pennant to the Pittsburgh Pirates—at least not yet.

Because one day of competition has tightened the race to a point where the senior circuit may again stage one of its famed stretch finishes.

Yesterday morning, the Pirates were rolling along six games out in front and striving to add to that lead and win their first pennant since 1927. Behind them were the New York Giants. In third place, 6½ games behind the pace, were the Cincinnati Reds while the Chicago Cubs languished in fourth, 8½ games out of the lead.

Today, the Pirates were only 4½ games in front of the Giants and 6½ ahead of the Cubs and Reds who were tied for third.

The lowly Philadelphia Phillies, cellar occupants, were responsible. They bumped the Pirates twice yesterday by the same scores, 2-1. The Cubs licked Brooklyn 4-2 and 5-4 while the Boston Bees licked Cincinnati 6-4 and 3-2. New York defeated St. Louis 8-7.

Lower Teams Stronger

From now on, the Pirates and other first division teams will find the lower division clubs tougher and tougher to beat, the same as it has been in past stretch races.

Max Butcher gave up only seven blows as the Phils won the opener, and "Wild Bill" Hallahan set the Pirates down with five hits in the 11-inning nightcap. Brack's double and Mueller's pinch-hit single provided the winning run.

Lee pitched a full game for the Cubs in the opener, holding the Dodgers to four hits, and Carleton eked out the second.

The Bees needed 12 innings to whip the Reds in the first game and it took a three-run burst in the ninth to win the nightcap. The Giants took 11 innings to subdue the Cardinals.

The New York Yankees maintained their 12-game American league lead with a twin victory over Cleveland, 5-2 and 15-3. The Indians dropped to third place, 14 games behind the Yanks as Boston moved up with 1-0 and 9-5 victories over the Chicago White Sox.

Lefty Gomez pitched a five-hit game for the Yanks in the opener and Red Ruffing yielded six hits for his 18th win of the year in the nightcap.

In the day's only extra-inning game on the junior circuit, St. Louis walloped Philadelphia 8-3 in 13 innings. The A's won the nightcap 4-1. Washington defeated Detroit 8-2.

900 SHOOTERS SEEK HONORS IN GRAND AMERICAN

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 26.—(UP)—Every man, woman and boy who toted a shotgun up to the firing line had an equal chance today as more than 900 sharpshooters began firing in the Grand American trapshooting handicap.

There was no such thing as a favorite—there never is—in this blue ribbon event of the 39th Grand American tournament which ends today.

Never, since the event was inaugurated in 1900, has a winner repeated. And there was no reason to expect that tradition would be shattered today.

The reason is that each year, as returning shooters improve, they are placed further and further back from the targets. Distances range from 16 yards for the novices to 25 for the top-flight experts. Only once has the event been taken by a man firing from the 25-yard-line—in 1933 by Walter Beaver of Berwyn, Pa., who broke 98 out of 100 targets.

It has never been won by a woman but there was one on the line today who might take the grand prize. She was Mrs. Lela Hall, a 20th century "Annie Oakley" from Strasburg, Mo. Mrs. Hall earlier this week won the North American women's clay target title for the fourth consecutive time. Last year she turned in 98 out of 100 possible hits from the 21 yard line, which would have been good enough for first-place tie from 1932 through 1936. There are 65 women entered.

Joe Hiestand, the Hillsboro, O., farmer who set a world record of 966 consecutive breaks this week, will have to shoot from the 25-yard line along with Phil Miller, French Lick, Ind., winner of this year's class AA title.

WRIGHT TO HEAD U. B. CHURCHES OF CONFERENCE

Lancaster Man, Formerly Of Circleville, Chosen For Another Term

REV. HARPER HAS PART

Assignment To Take Place At Sunday Morning Session

The Rev. P. E. Wright, of Lancaster, formerly of Circleville, conference superintendent of the southeastern Ohio district, Church of the United Brethren in Christ, for the last three years, was re-elected for another year at the 38th conference session being conducted this week in the First United Brethren church, Chillicothe. Approximately 250 pastors and delegates are attending the conference.

The Rev. T. C. Harper, pastor of the Circleville church, presented the scripture reading and prayer for the Thursday night session. General theme of the Thursday evening session was "Evangelism." The Rev. Spurgeon Metzler, pastor of the Pickaway U. B. church, was one of three pastors who spoke on the general theme. The subject of his address was "In The Home."

Two addresses were given and considerable routine business of the conference was transacted at the Friday morning session. Following the conference session Friday afternoon a meet of the Ministers' Benefit Society was scheduled.

The Rev. Mr. Harper assisted in a Communion service administered by Bishop A. R. Clippinger of Dayton, at the conference opening Wednesday. Tributes were paid in a memorial service to the late Rev. S. R. Shaw and Emmett Shields of Harrisburg.

The assignment of pastors for the next year will take place at the Sunday morning service.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU

BY BOB BURNS

The thing that holds us Americans together more than anything else is the pride of our country. Every smooth politician knows that the surest way to arouse the voters is to play on the traditions of our forefathers.

One Summer a student left a book at Uncle Hods' house called "The History of the South." Uncle Hods sat around for several weeks reading the book and finally one day, he called his eight boys to him and he says "Listen, you boys was all born right in the country that's just steeped in southern chivalry and I want you to live up to it. Hereafter when your maw finishes plowin' in the evenin', I want one of you boys to unhitch the mules for her!"

Boy, 8, Key in Probe Of Illinois Farmer's Death

FAIRFIELD, Ill., Aug. 26—(UP)—Sheriff Ernest Burkett announced today that two young Tennessee housewives, who left their husbands two weeks ago to seek adventure, had confessed the slaying for robbery of Felix Shannon, 56, well-to-do farmer.

FAIRFIELD, Ill., Aug. 26—(UP)—An eight-year-old boy will confront two young Tennessee housewives today in an attempt to identify them as the slayers of his father, Felix Shannon, 56, well-to-do farmer who was shot to death at his home Monday.

Sheriff Ernest Burkett said Shannon's son, Carlyle, and half a dozen witnesses from Indiana would view the women to ascertain whether they were the hitch-hikers Shannon picked up Sunday near Princeton, Ind.

The women are Mrs. Jean Brooks, 23, Elizabethtown, Tenn., and Mrs. Beulah Honeycutt, 25, Johnson City, Tenn., who told Burkett they had left their husbands for the thrill of the open road.

They pleaded not guilty when arraigned in their cell last night before Justice of the Peace Ed Wilson on murder warrants signed by Perry Shannon, the victim's brother.

Burkett arrested them Tuesday night at Hopkinsville, Ky., after he had trailed them across three states. Both denied knowledge of the crime and said they never had been in Illinois.

Body in Bedroom

Perry Shannon found his brother's body in a bedroom of their home at nearby Mount Erie early Monday. The body was nude and there were two bullet wounds in the head. Burkett found 13 cents in Shannon's clothes near his body.

The victim had been estranged from his wife who lives at Somerville, Ind., with their five children. Carlyle was with his father Sunday when he picked up two girl hitch-hikers near Princeton. Several other persons also saw the women. The boy stayed at Somerville and his father continued on into Illinois with the hitch-hikers.

Burkett found a pair of women's shoes in Shannon's automobile, parked a mile and a half from his home. A revolver with three discharged cartridges was lying near the machine. A woman's purse was found in Shannon's home. Burkett said robbery apparently

W.C.T.U. NAMES LUCY B. PRICE AS PRESIDENT

Other Officials Selected From Five Of City's Churches

The Circleville Women's Christian Temperance Union elected officers for the ensuing year, Thursday evening, at its meeting at the United Brethren community house.

Mrs. Lucy B. Price was chosen president and five vice presidents were chosen from the churches of Circleville. These include Mrs. G. H. Adkins of the Methodist Episcopal church, Mrs. Abbe Gusman, United Brethren, Mrs. J. O. Eagleson, Presbyterian, Mrs. Harry B. Denman, Evangelical, and Mrs. Margaret Gard, Church of Christ. Mrs. Price will also be corresponding secretary and Mrs. Eagleson will serve as treasurer. Mrs. Lawrence Warner was named recording secretary. Mrs. Gard will serve as counselor for the Youth's Temperance Council.

Mrs. Price was acting chairman of the session a position which she has filled since Mrs. Maude Maxey, president, removed from the city some time ago.

A short program in charge of Mrs. Anna Rankin brought the meeting to a close. A representative group of members was present.

STAFFS OF ALL BUT TWO COUNTY SCHOOLS FILLED

Teaching staffs of all Pickaway county schools with the exception of Ashville and Monroe township were complete Friday.

The Perry township board of education employed Miss Florence Heltman, of Cincinnati, Thursday night, to teach physical education, social science and mathematics. Miss Heltman replaces Miss Sara Oglesbee, employed at Darby township this year.

Miss Ruth Warner, of Mt. Sterling, has been employed by the Pickaway township board of education this week as art teacher. Miss Warner will teach two days each week.

George McDowell, superintendent of county schools, reported the vacancy in Ashville is for a physical education and home economics instructor. A special meeting will be called soon to fill the position.

The Monroe township board of education will meet Friday night to employ a Latin, physical education and English instructor.

Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA

MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN wins the feminine lead opposite Robert Taylor for the second time in "The Crowd Roars", dramatic story of the modern prize ring, which comes to the Cliftona Theatre Sunday for a three day engagement. The new teaming is the result of their work together in "A Yank at Oxford."

As Sheila Carson, Miss O'Sullivan enacts the daughter of a big-time gambler, Edward Arnold, who uses "Killer" McCoy, the starring character created by Taylor, as a pawn in his shady dealings. Her father's activities are unknown to Sheila until she is kidnapped by rival racketeers on the night of McCoy's championship fight. The story reaches its climax when McCoy, who is in love with Sheila, decides to throw the fight to save her.

AT THE GRAND

Guinn "Big Boy" Williams, six feet two, weight 210, and son of a U. S. Congressman from Texas, started out in life to be a soldier, and although his early education was entirely in military academies, the nearest "Big Boy" came to fulfilling his childhood ambition was being a movie Marine in Monogram's "The Marines are Here," which is now showing at the Grand theatre.

In "The Marines are Here," "Big Boy" Williams plays tough, hard-boiled Sgt. Gibbons, to whom the service means more than anything in the world.

The cast includes June Travis, Ray Walker as Hogan, Gordon Oliver as Jones, Ronnie Cosbey, and Billy Dooley.

The days of the early west are vividly portrayed in Monogram's current western, "Man's Country" starring Jack Randall which opens Friday at the Grand theatre.

All of the cowboys seen in "Man's Country" were actually recruited from ranches at Lone Pine. They regarded working in the film as more or less play in comparison to their more strenuous work rounding up cattle and breaking broncos.

"Man's Country" is a thrilling story of how a lone ranger cracks a band of outlaws single-handed.

Plenty of public probes nowadays, but not very many operations.

At The Circle

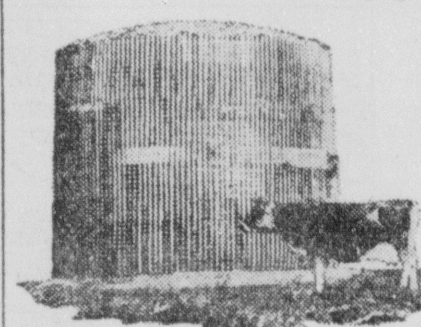

TOM TYLER in "The Forty Niners" is at the Circle theatre tonight and Saturday.
